It's November 25, 1998 we're at the home of Lester Bauer in Beulah, property owned by Lester Bauer, who's deceased. There's a large sink hole in the front yard of the house. They're running the tape down there now, and it looks to be about nine or 10 feet deep, and it bells out below the surface. The Surface opening of the sinkhole is probably only about four or five feet in diameter, but it evidently is quite a bit deeper below, there's a sewer line down the hole that's going to create some problems with Reclamation and restoration. We've got one contractor here taking a look at it, H and F construction of Hazen. We're going to try and get it taken care of as soon as possible. See, there's snow here on top of it, according to these guys that are looking down it right now, it looks like it, it opens up mostly towards the sidewalk. Try and pan out a little bit here. There we go. You see the house in the background. See Bruce beachy running his tape down there, and it looks like it runs out into the street. You
