song, and here they are singing on it with me," he said. "You can't hardly even imagine that feeling."

The song has been good to Hall & Oates lately as well. They recently received a Grammy nomination for "Sara Smile" in the best pop performance by a duo or group category. The recording, from their "Live at the Troubadour" album, is competing against tunes from the Black Eyed Peas, Bon Jovi, the Fray and MGMT.

As for "Sara Smile" — the album — Wayne has a good feeling about it. Keith Urban co-wrote the first track on the CD, "Things I Believe."

The FBI won't say how much the robber took, but say the money in the envelope was about 80 percent of the amount stolen. It was separated into stacks of $5s, $10s, $20s and $100s.

The FBI announced the mailing on Tuesday and says it is checking the package for fingerprints and other clues. They believe the robber is local because he was wearing a yellow Pittsburgh Steelers T-shirt.

tion on the role of government," Shapiro said.

Shapiro picks quotes that are famous, important or revealing of the spirit of the times. The quotes aren't necessarily the most eloquent or admirable.

The health care debate sparked two other quotes that made the list: The shout of "You lie!" by Rep. Joe Wilson, R-S.C., during President Barack Obama's September speech on health care and Sarah Palin's "death panel" allegation.

Here's the list:

1. "Keep your government hands off my Medicare." Speaker at health care reform town hall meeting in Simpsonville, S.C., commenting on the government-created Medicare program, quoted by The Washington Post on July 28.
2. "We're going to be in the Hudson." Captain Chesley "Sully" Sullenberger, responding to air traffic controllers asking on which runway he preferred to land US Airways Flight 1549 on Jan. 15 before he landed in the Hudson River.
3. "There's an app for that." Apple's advertising slogan for the iPhone.
4. "You lie!" Wilson's shouted retort to Obama's address before a joint session of Congress on Sept. 9.
5. "The Cambridge police

6. "I'm going to let you finish, but Beyonce had one of the best videos of all time! One of the best videos of all time!" Kanye West, interrupting Taylor Swift's acceptance speech at the MTV Video Music Awards on Sept. 13.

7. "Um, you guys said that we, um, did this for the show." Falcon Heene, during an interview on CNN about his parents' balloon hoax on Oct. 15.

8. "The America I know and love is not one in which my parents or my baby with Down Syndrome will have to stand in front of Obama's 'death panel.'" Palin, posting on her Facebook page on Aug. 7.

9. "The governor is hiking the Appalachian Trail." Spokesman for South Carolina Gov. Mark Sanford regarding Sanford's disappearance on June 22.

10. "You give me a water board, Dick Cheney and one hour, and I'll have him confess to the Sharon Tate murders." Jesse Ventura, during a CNN interview May 11.

Country stars calm their nerves various ways

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — There are a variety of ways that country stars calm their nerves before big performances.

For Randy Travis, it's simple.

"This is a strange sounding thing to tell anyone, but don't think about it," he says. "Years ago I finally came to that point. I don't even consider what I'm about to go do until it's literally time to walk up and do it. It's just I don't think about it. So I find that has helped me a lot."

Would that advice work for Reba McEntire?

"Oh no, I think about it. I can't get it out of my mind," she says.

So she has her own solution.

"I just take a deep breath. That's all you can do, and just go out there and have fun," adds McEntire.

Jason Aldean prefers something a little more palpable.

"Have a drink. Have a little drink before the show. Not too much, but just enough to kind of take the edge off," he says.

That was Darius Rucker's plan before his CMA Awards performance last month.

"I'm going to take a big shot of Jim Beam. That's what I'm going to do to calm my nerves. Absolutely."

The members of Gloriana find that there is strength in numbers. Rachel Reinert says their trick is to embrace their goofiness.

"If we ever mess up, we just laugh it off," she says.

"And make fun of each other for it for the next month," adds Cheyenne Kimball.

"But no, we do have a pre-show ritual that we do every night," says Reinert. "We all get together and put our fists together and say our secret word, which we can't reveal. But we just try to have as much fun as we can. We try not to take ourselves too seriously."

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION
United Telephone Mutual Aid
Corporation/Midcontinent Communications
Interconnection Agreement
Application
Case No. PU-09-723

NOTICE OF OPPORTUNITY FOR COMMENT

December 10, 2009
On November 19, 2009, United Telephone Mutual Aid Corporation (United) entered into an interconnection agreement with Midcontinent Communications (Midcontinent) pursuant to Section 251 of the Telecommunications Act of 1996 (Act). The agreement set forth terms and conditions under which United provides interconnection services, local number portability, ancillary services and wholesale services for resale to Midcontinent. The agreement was filed with the Commission on December 2, 2009.

On December 9, 2009, United filed a request for approval of the interconnection agreement in less than 90 days pursuant to 47 U.S.C. § 252(e)(1).

This agreement was filed under Section 252(e) of the Telecommunications Act of 1996. The Act requires that any agreement adopted by negotiation or arbitration be submitted for approval to the Commission. Under 47 U.S.C. § 252(e)(2)(A), the Commission may only reject an agreement adopted by negotiation (or a portion of the agreement) if it finds that:

1. the agreement discriminates against a telecommunications carrier that was not a party to the agreement; or
2. implementation of the agreement is not consistent with the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

In addition, under 47 U.S.C. Section 253 the Commission may include, in its review, state requirements that do not constitute barriers to entry.

The Commission will receive written comments on this agreement until January 25, 2010.

For more information contact the Public Service Commission, State Capitol, Bismarck, North Dakota 58505, 701-328-2400; or Relay North Dakota 1-800-366-6888 TTY. If you require any auxiliary aids or services, such as readers, signers, or Braille materials, please notify the Commission.
