STATE OF NORTH DAKOTA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION Northern States Power Company Aggregators of Retail Customers Investigation Case No. PU-10-59 NOTICE OF OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING May 12, 2010 On March 1, 2010, Northern States Power Company (NSP) filed comments and a request for action prohibiting the operation of Aggregators of Retail Customers (ARCs). ARCs would aggregate retail customer load reductions and sell the resulting energy in the Midwest Independent System Operator (Midwest ISO) wholesale energy market. NSP states that a Midwest ISO federal tariff filed to comply with Federal Energy Regulatory Commission Order 719 would authorize ARCs to begin operating as soon as June 1, 2010, unless the Public Service Commission takes action to prohibit ARC operations. NSP contends that operation of ARCs may negatively impact customer rates, system reliability and existing demand response programs. Those interested are invited to comment in writing. Persons desiring a hearing must file a written request identifying their interest in the proceeding and the reasons for requesting a hearing. Comments and requests for hearings must be received by June 22, 2010. If deemed appropriate, the Commission can determine these matters without a hearing. The issues to be determined in this proceeding are: 1. Whether ARC operations constitute resale of electricity by retail customers prohibited under North Dakota Administrative Code Section 69-09-02-15 unless the rate schedule under which the customer receives service specifically provides for resale? 2. Whether the Commission should prohibit or regulate the operation of ARCs and if operation should be regulated then how and to what extent? For more information contact the Public Service Commission, State Capitol, Bismarck, North Dakota 58505, 701-328-2400 or Relay North Dakota 1-800-366-6888 TTY. If you require any auxiliary aids or services, such as readers, signers, or Braille materials, please notify the Commission. New Panera location says pay what you want

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — Panera Bread Co. is asking customers at a new restaurant to pay what they want.

The national bakery and restaurant chain launched a new nonprofit store here this week that has the same menu as its other 1,400 locations. But the prices are a little different — there aren't any. Customers are told to donate what they want for a meal, whether it's the full suggested price, a penny or $100.

The new store in the upscale St. Louis suburb of Clayton is the first of what will Panera hopes will be many around the country. Ronald Shaich, Panera's CEO until last week, was on hand at the new bakery Monday to explain the system to customers.

The pilot restaurant is run by a nonprofit foundation. If it can sustain itself financially, Panera will expand the model around the country within months. It all depends on whether customers will abide by the motto that hangs above the deli counter: "Take what you need, leave your fair share." Panera hopes to open a similar location in every community where it operates. Other nonprofits have opened community kitchens, where customers set the price, and the idea has spread among food enthusiasts and philanthropists. But Panera brings new scale to the idea — its community restaurants will use the company's distribution system and have access to its national food suppliers.

The first location bears the name St. Louis Bread Co. Cares — the chain's former name and one it still uses in its hometown. Customers seemed alternately puzzled and pleased by the concept.

Neb. sheriff's race decided by play

BRIDGEPORT, Neb. (AP) — A deck of cards and a bit of luck helped decide who will likely be the next sheriff of Morrill County.

The nine of hearts Milo Cardenas drew Monday beat Travis Petersen's six of spades, giving Cardenas the Republican nomination for sheriff. Since no Democrats ran for sheriff, Cardenas, the police chief in Bridgeport, is likely to win in November's election.

"I knew it was going to be close, but I didn't expect to be this close," Cardenas said.

The two men agreed to cut a deck of cards after Monday's re-count confirmed that both finished at the top of a four-man race with 379 votes after balloting ended last Tuesday. State law requires tied elections to be settled by a game of chance.

Cardenas said deciding the race with a card game seemed a little crazy but also seemed like the best option.

"I felt more comfortable with the deck of cards. That way you pick your own destiny," Cardenas said.

Brandt shuffled the cards seven times and spread them out on a table before the candidates drew cards simultaneously.
