Dobbs has nothing to do with abortion lawsuit

Official named in controversial case due to technicality

Dobbs

EMILY WAGSTER PETTUS AND MIKE STOBBE
Associated Press

JACKSON, Miss. — Dr. Thomas Dobbs has never gotten involved in political fights over reproductive health, but his name has become shorthand for a legal case that could end abortion rights in the United States. If he has feelings about the situation, he pretty much keeps those to himself.

Mississippi's top public health official is named in Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Organization, a dispute over a state law that would ban most abortions after the 15th week but that could be used to overturn Roe v. Wade.

A leaked draft of a U.S. Supreme Court opinion shows a conservative majority of justices are ready to use the case to topple the court's landmark 1973 ruling that established abortion rights nationwide.

Dobbs, 52, is a physician in charge of the state health department, which regulates Mississippi's only abortion clinic. As the state's chief health officer, he is the person who must be named in any lawsuit related to abortion or other health issues, he explained recently in a post on Twitter.

So, while the name at the center of the abortion debate could eventually change from "Roe" to "Dobbs," it is not the health officer but the state attorney general's office that is handling the state's case.

"I had no direct involvement in any component of this legal action," he wrote in the post.

Liz Sharlot, communications director for the state health department, confirmed Dobbs' strictly nominal role and denied a request from The Associated Press to interview him because, she said, he "did not personally initiate this case."

"The Mississippi State Department of Health's only role regarding abortion facilities is the regulation to support the law, the inspection and the licensing of that facility," Sharlot wrote in an email.

Dobbs is a former state epidemiologist who became head of the health department in 2018, months after Mississippi's Republican-controlled Legislature passed the abortion-restriction law that's now at the center of the court case.

He has spent his public health career focused not on abortion, but on pushing for better outcomes in a state plagued by high rates of infant mortality and other poor health statistics.

The legal fight over abortion started when Mississippi's only abortion clinic sued over the 15-week ban. The suit was originally called Jackson Women's Health Organization v. Currier et al. The main defendant was the state health officer at the time, Dr. Mary Currier. After she left, a judge removed Currier's name from the case and replaced it with Dobbs.

A federal district judge blocked the law from taking effect. When the state appealed to the Supreme Court, the name of the case was flipped, to Dobbs versus the clinic.

During an online briefing hosted by the Mississippi State Medical Association in June 2021, Dobbs was asked about his name being on the abortion case. He quickly noted that Dr. Kenneth Cleveland also was named in the lawsuit in his capacity as head of the Mississippi State Board of Medical Licensure.

"He didn't make the headline," the medical association president at the time, Dr. Mark Horne, said in a good-natured jab at Dobbs.

"I'm trying to get him to swap with me," Dobbs quipped.

Until now, the name most associated with the abortion debate has been Jane Roe, a pseudonym for a Dallas woman named Norma McCorvey, who was the plaintiff in the famous Roe v. Wade case. Wade was Henry Wade, the Dallas County district attorney at the time.

In 1969, the 22-year-old McCorvey became pregnant for the third time and wanted to have an abortion. McCorvey and her attorneys ultimately won the legal battle, but not until she gave birth and gave the girl up for adoption.

She later became an anti-abortion activist. McCorvey was 69 when she died in 2017.

Another name that often arises in the debate is that of Robert P. Casey, a former Democratic governor of Pennsylvania who was an anti-abortion advocate. In 1989, he worked with the state's legislature to enact a law that placed several limitations on abortion. Planned Parenthood of South-eastern Pennsylvania challenged the law. In 1992, the Supreme Court upheld most of the restrictions, but also affirmed a woman's right to an abortion. Casey died in 2000. The name of the case was Planned Parenthood v. Casey.

While Dobbs has not been involved in the abortion debates, he has spent the past two years engulfed in a different contentious health issue: the COVID-19 pandemic. At dozens of news conferences and other public appearances, he has implored people to get vaccinated, wear masks and maintain social distancing. He persisted even as many people, including some public officials, resisted.

Contractors must be licensed for the highest amount of their total bid combination including add alternates; and their ND Contractor's License must have been in effect at least ten (10) days prior to the date of the bid opening. No bid will be read or considered which does not fully comply with the requirement herein for a bid bond and a ND Contractor's License. Both documents must be uploaded to "Bid Express" as attachments to your bid. A Certificate of Good Standing will NOT be accepted in lieu of a North Dakota Contractor's License. No exceptions will be made to deficient bids. The OWNER reserves the right to hold all legitimate bids for a period of thirty (30) days following the date fixed for the bid opening. It is the intent of the OWNER to award a contract to the lowest and best bidder. The OWNER further reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive irregularities, and shall incur no legal liability for the State of North Dakota for the payment of any funds until the contract is awarded and approved by the proper authorities.

In compliance with Section 48-01.2-10 of the North Dakota Century Code, the successful bidder (awardee) shall be required to furnish payment and performance bonds covering the faithful performance of the contract award and the payment of all obligations thereunder, and all additional obligations required by the laws of the State of North Dakota. Weekly message from Valley City Mayor Dave Carlsrud

Hello Folks,
What a beautiful weekend. With some sunshine, warmer temperatures, less wind and no rain. Sue and I took advantage of said weather and invested some time doing a few things in our yard. I hope you enjoyed your weekend too.

By Mayor Carlsrud

There are still a number of properties with grass higher than what contributes to the beauty of our city. Will you please mow your lawns appropriately? Thank you.

A shout out to our city staff for doing a great job throughout the weeks with excess rains in our area. There are many demands during said events, installing Permanent Flood Protection (PFP), preparing clay dikes, completing extra paperwork and the like. Thank you to all.

The Soap Box Derby was held over the weekend with a nice crowd attending. Thank you sponsors, participants and to all who facilitated the event, it was a great event.

“Music In the Park” is Wednesday, 7:15 PM at the Band Shell. Take a lawn chair and enjoy the music.

*Clean-up Week is this week. Please review what will be picked up and separate materials accordingly. The weather forecast appears to be mostly dry along with moderate temperatures helping facilitate a successful event. Do your part and enjoy.

Contributors; thank you again for helping this week.

“Let me win, but if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt.” (Special Olympics Athletes’ Motto)

Blessings, Respect, Kindness and Prayers,

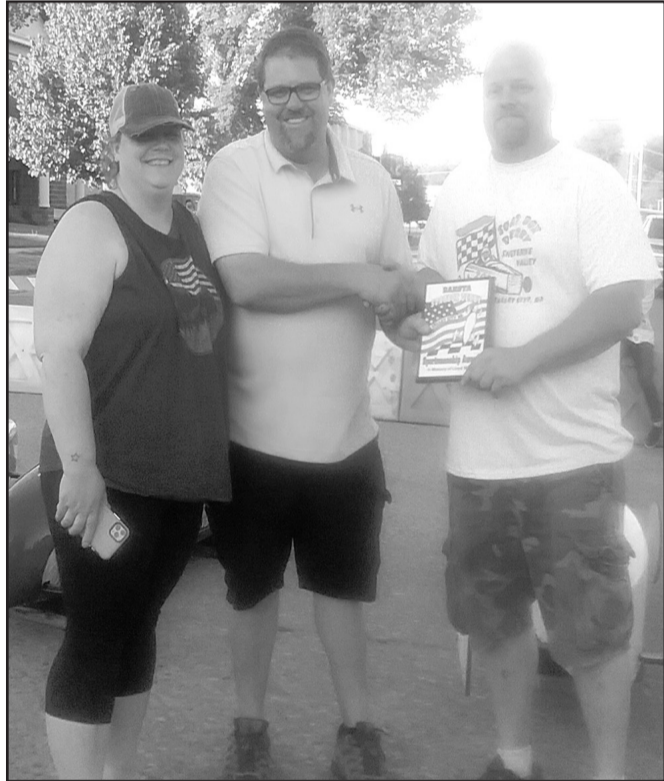

Valley City Mayor
Dave Carlsrud

PUBLIC NOTICE

On May 27, 2022, WBI Energy Transmission, Inc. (WBI Energy) filed an Application for a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity (Application) with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) in Docket No. CP22-466-000. The Application requests authority to construct, modify, operate, and maintain natural gas transmission facilities in Cass and Richland Counties, North Dakota. This work is collectively known as the Wahpeton Expansion Project (Project).

WBI Energy is a natural gas company engaged in the transportation and storage of natural gas in Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wyoming. WBI Energy also operates underground storage reservoirs in the Baker Field, Montana and the Elk Basin Field, Wyoming to serve its natural gas system.

The facilities WBI Energy is proposing as part of the Project include: (i) approximately 60.5 miles of new 12-inch-diameter natural gas transmission pipeline from WBI Energy's existing Mapleton Compressor Station near Mapleton, North Dakota in Cass County to a proposed delivery station near Wahpeton, North Dakota in Richland County; (ii) minor modifications at the Mapleton Compressor Station; (iii) a proposed delivery station near Kindred, North Dakota in Cass County; and (iv) block valve settings, pig launcher/receiver settings and other associated appurtenances.

The Project will provide incremental firm natural gas transportation service from WBI Energy's existing interconnect with Viking Gas Transmission Company (Viking) at the Felton receipt location near Felton, Minnesota, to two new delivery locations near Kindred and Wahpeton. New pipeline infrastructure in southeast North Dakota is vital in meeting a growing demand for natural gas in that region. If approved, WBI Energy plans to construct the facilities in the Spring of 2024 and have the new facilities in service by November 1, 2024.

A copy of the Application to the FERC is available online at WBI Energy's Project website at <https://www.wbienergy.com/projects/wahpeton>. The Application is also available online at FERC's website using the "eLibrary" link at www.ferc.gov. WBI Energy has made the documents available for public viewing at the following locations:

- Leach Public Library of Wahpeton (Wahpeton, ND); and
 - Kindred City Hall (Kindred, ND).
- A pamphlet prepared by the FERC entitled, "An Interstate Natural Gas Facility on My Land? What Do I Need to Know?" is available on the FERC's website at <https://www.ferc.gov/landowner-topics-interest>. The pamphlet explains the FERC's certificate process and addresses the rights of property owners. The FERC's Office of External Affairs at 1-202-502-8004 will answer any further questions about the procedures involved. Questions regarding this Project can be directed to Steve Kelly, Project Manager for WBI Energy. Mr. Kelly can be reached by calling the toll-free Project information line 1-844-825-9397 or emailing steve.kelly@wbienergy.com.
