Hurrah for North Dakota Socialism

By Lloyd Omdahl

Even though many North Dakotans have been bad-mouthing socialism in recent years, two North Dakota socialistic institutions have refuted this knee-jerk reaction to faulty economic theory.

With record profits, the North Dakota Mill and Elevator – largest in the United States with a gross annual business of $800,000,000 – demonstrated that socialism works.

It wasn't too long ago that a state senator from Minot made it a biennial legislative issue to sell the Mill and Elevator.

Because the Mill and Elevator has been so successful management was able to hand out $25,000 "gainsharing" checks to employees at a July company picnic.

The state-run Bank of North Dakota has been a godsend for a large number of opportunities that were snatched up for farmers, banks, economic development, student loans and a host of other programs tailored to North Dakota's needs.

The mood at the Mill has changed to the positive since I was last involved for the George Sinner administration when the ND Industrial Commission delegated me to monitor labor negotiations at the Mill.

The negative management at the time hired an out-of-state union buster to negotiate on behalf of the Mill. His last best offer was inadequate and I ended up writing the new contract that protected the employees.

Even those who bad-mouth socialism end up bragging when they tell newcomers about the state-owned Mill and Bank.

Both institutions struggled in the 1920s to survive, partly because of scandals and partly because of hostile politics.

While we have no record of a public referendum on the Mill in the special election October 28, 1921, the Bank eked out a victory with 51% of the vote.

Running concurrently in the same election with the proposal to abolish the Bank was a move to recall the members of the Industrial Commission who controlled the Bank. While voting to keep the Bank, voters threw out the governor, attorney general and commissioner of agriculture.

This left the Bank in the hands of its adversaries. The new anti-Bank Industrial Commission, however, read public opinion favoring the Bank and decided to keep the institution.

The Nonpartisan League, then a branch of the Republican Party, sponsored creation of the Mill and the Bank because of the influence of socialists in the organization. The core of the League consisted of socialists who drifted away from their own party and into the NPL.

The success of the Mill and Bank should refute the bug-a-boo about socialism that has stymied adoption of new programs to help the less fortunate in our midst.

One of the greatest needs for socialism at the present time is health care. The present system is leaving too many people in cemeteries prematurely simply because the system isn't adequate.

There are many facets of health care that could use a little socialism e.g. maybe it's time for the state to become more involved in the pharmaceutical industry.

We hear a lot about people dying because they can't afford the expense of medications while the pharmaceutical industry is raking in record profits, sometimes with government subsidies.

Of course, subsidies are socialism by a different name but even those who are beneficiaries of subsidies shudder when some demagogue disparages socialism. It seems that socialism is good for me but not for thee.

The outstanding success of the Bank and the Mill should tamp down some of the fears generated about socialism. If some is good maybe more is better.

DAKOTA DATEBOOK: Dustin Hoffman, Director

August 8, 2023 — The Fargo Moorhead Community Theatre staged its first production, My Sister Aileen, in 1946, and until getting permanent facilities in 1967, they staged their shows wherever they could. In 1963, an east coast actor was hired to direct two of their plays, at least one of which was produced in the Red River Playhouse.

In 2002, when he was interviewed by the Minneapolis Star-Tribune at the Toronto Film Festival, he realized the paper's proximity to North Dakota. "Can I tell you a story?" he asked the reporter. "I was a young, unemployed actor living in New York City. This was back in the '50s. Couldn't get a job, even waiting tables. I went up to the Equity office – you know, the [stage actors'] union office – to see if there was anything. And one week there was. There was a note saying that the Fargo-Moorhead Community Theater (sic) needed an artistic director. I applied, and I got the job. You know Fargo? I love it."

He was Dustin Hoffman, who four years later performed his break-out role in the hit movie, "The Graduate." Today is his birthday.

On March 30, 2022, in Case No. PU-22-27, the Commission issued a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity No. 5966 authorizing Otter Tail Power Company (OTP) to own and operate the Ashtabula III wind facility.
On August 17, 2022, in Case No. PU-22-195, the Commission issued its Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Order authorizing transfer of Certificate of Site Compatibility Number 17 and authorized OTP's ownership of a 43 1.6 MW wind turbines by issuing First Reissued Certificate of Site Compatibility Number 17.
On June 29, 2023, in Case No. PU-23-256, OTP filed a certification to repower the 43 existing 1.6 MW General Electric (GE) 82.5-meter rotor diameter blades, hubs and gearboxes with upgraded 1.6 MW GE 91-meter rotor diameter blades, hubs and gearboxes. The changes to the site resulting from the repowering of the facilities are likely to change the impacts of the facility. As a result, the Commission finds it prudent to issue a Notice of Opportunity For Hearing to ensure continued minimal adverse effects on the environment and upon the welfare of the citizens of North Dakota. The issues to be considered in this proceeding are:
1. Will the location, construction, and operation of the proposed facility produce minimal adverse effects on the environment and upon the welfare of the citizens of North Dakota?
2. Is the proposed facility compatible with the environmental preservation and the efficient use of resources?
3. Will the proposed facility location minimize adverse human and environmental impact while ensuring continuing system reliability and integrity and ensuring that energy needs are met and fulfilled in an orderly and timely fashion?
Those interested are invited to comment on the application in writing. Persons desiring a hearing must file a written request identifying their interest in the proceeding and the reasons for requesting a hearing. Comments and requests for hearings must be received by September 15, 2023. If deemed appropriate, the Commission can determine the matter without a formal hearing.
